WHAT DO NEWBORN LAMBS and people have in common on New Year's Day? Both are likely to be a little bit wobbly and not inclined to do more than peek at what's going on. Fortunately, this fuzzy newcomer has a formidable mother, a Registered Suffolk, to guide his hesitant steps and help him over the bumps at Bob Wilson's Rancho Chupinos east of the Village. Welcome to Carmel Valley, little lamb. And Happy New Year. (photo by George T.C. Smith)

BOB WOOD REPORTS. . .

A REGULAR COLUMN BY BOB WOOD,
ASSEMBLYMAN - 34TH DISTRICT

It's a sure bet that one of the more popular subjects for legislation in the upcoming 1973 session will be in the consumer protection area. A good many bills were introduced and passed during 1972, and the consumer advocates have had their appetites whetted for new reforms in the years to come. But I don't believe I'm alone when I mention that like everything else we can go too far in this area.

The problem is that some (not all) consumer advocates are misleading the public with a barrage of sensational half-truths and innuendoes. They are intent on protecting the public against practices and products it might be willing to accept if it knew all the facts.

These misled consumers, along with some who represent them in government, seem willing to embrace solutions to problems they do not fully understand, nor even want to. The situation in some cases has become so distorted that sensationalism is given greater credence than is solid scientific fact.

A classic example of this problem can be seen in the U.S. Senate version of the proposed "Save Drinking Water Act." It advocates a national drinking water council of 15 "qualified scientists," none of whom have any economic interest in the supplying of drinking water or the regulation thereof. This means that anyone with a first-hand knowledge of water supply cannot serve on the council. A more useful application of this approach might be to bar lawyers from participating in lawmaking, or men with an agricultural background from serving on an agricultural commission, or a former teacher serving on a school board.

Consumer protection is needed in some areas, I am sure we will all agree with this. Recent laws we have passed in California and other states have cut considerably the frequency of bill-padding and other schemes in the auto and electronics repair industries. Consumers have but to pick up a telephone and complain to a State or local agency if they feel they have been cheated.

It would appear to me that we should proceed with caution in this area and study very carefully the sometimes hysterical charges and claims that are designed to "protect" the consumer.

Enuf for now . . . BOB WOOD

TO THE EDITOR

Gentlemen:

For the past week, someone has given the people who travel the Carmel Valley Road a lovely Christmas gift.

I refer to a beautifully decorated tree, high up on the south side of the mountains, approximately opposite the Lutheran Church. There is no apparent source of electricity, yet this tree stands out, a beacon of love and goodwill for all who see it.

Whoever you are, dear person who gave the Valley this lovely tree, we thank you. It has been a constant source of joy to us as we travel home in the evening from work or from shopping. Thank you and God bless you.

Sincerely,
GRACE DONAHUE

Schedule of Carmel Valley hearings

New Cummings building on Delfino Place -- The Monterey County Board of Supervisors will hold a public hearing on Jan. 9, 11 a.m. on an appeal by Larry Cummings from the decision of the Planning Commission denying design approval for a new restaurant-office building.

Hal O'Flaherty, Carmel Valley Manor resident, dies at 82

Private funeral services were held Tuesday for Hal O'Flaherty, former foreign correspondent and managing editor of the Chicago Daily News.

Mr. O'Flaherty died Sunday at his home at Carmel Valley Manor, two weeks after undergoing heart surgery. He was 82.

He was born July 8, 1890, in What Cheer, Iowa. He began his long and distinguished career as a newsman in Des Moines. He scored a major news break as a reporter for the United Press in 1913 when he reported on a tornado in Omaha by using the only telegraph line in operation.

Roy Howard, president of United Press, took Mr. O'Flaherty to Chicago. During World War I he was assigned to London, where the New York Sun hired him away from UP.

Returning to the United States, he enlisted in the aviation section of the Signal Corps, the forerunner of the U.S. Air Force. He was undergoing training as a pursuit pilot in Arkansas when the war ended.

He went back to London as a reporter for the Sun, and married Sabine Smith in 1919.

Then he was hired by the Chicago Daily News to cover Scandinavia and the Baltic countries. After living in Stockholm and again in London, he returned to Chicago to become foreign news editor. At the same time Mrs. O'Flaherty became a fashion writer for the paper.

He was promoted to managing editor and in 1943 persuaded his publisher, Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy at the time, to permit him to go to the South Pacific as a war correspondent. He went on to cover the New Guinea, Guadalcanal and Bougainville campaigns before he was stopped by malaria.

Back home again, he covered the United Nations from its inception at Dumbarton Oaks to the signing of the charter in San Francisco in June, 1945.

Mr. O'Flaherty retired from the Daily News in 1952. He lectured in Indonesia on freedom of the press and was a director of the Crane Foundation Institute on World Affairs.

He and his wife lived in Orinda and Berkeley before moving to Carmel Valley Manor nine years ago.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Sheila Robertson of Washington, D.C.; a brother, Leo J.O'Flaherty of Los Angeles; a nephew, Terance O'Flaherty of San Francisco; and three grandchildren.

Services held for George Mead, long-time Carmel Valley resident

Funeral services were held Tuesday for George Homer Mead of 33 Boronda Road.

Mr. Mead, 75, died in a local hospital Saturday following a lengthy illness.

A native of Anaconda, Montana, he had lived in Carmel Valley for 21 years. Well known in the construction field, he worked until poor health forced his retirement earlier this year.

Mr. Mead is survived by his widow, Margaret; a daughter, Barbara Farrell of Phoenix, Ariz.; a son, George E. Mead of Arcadia; two brothers, Robert of Pasadena and Earl of Romoland, Calif.; four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The family prefers contributions to the City of Hope, Duarte, Calif.

THE ORGANIC GARDENER

By LEE HALL

. . . in Carmel Valley

THE BATTLE IS JOINED

Many textbooks of agriculture clearly state that plants take up nutrients in the form of inorganic ions and only as inorganic ions. They say the plant couldn't care less if nitrogen, for example, is available as ammonium sulfate or an organic protein; the plant changes the ammonium to a nitrate before it can be used and it changes the nitrogen in protein to a nitrate. Therefore, the textbooks say, chemical fertilizer is just as good and a lot cheaper than organic fertilizer.

We haven't argued with the textbooks or teachers of plant physiology because we couldn't prove that organic materials could be taken up by plants. We went organic because we used waste products that would have to be disposed of otherwise, the soil was made crumbly and easy to turn and sow, the organic soil held water much better and saved on the water bill, insects were cut down or eliminated, weeds were controlled and what few weeds showed up were easy to pull because of the crumbly soil. and flowers grown organically were bigger, healthier, and prettier, and vegetables were bigger, healthier and tasted better.

I am not an expert in agriculture. I am an environmental physiologist, but I have published over 50 scientific papers and I do know what is scientifically valid and what is conjective covered up in pseudo scientific gobbledy gook. This latter is most clearly demonstrated in patent medicine advertising.

N.A. Krasilnikov, "Soil Micro-organisms and Higher Plants" has proved by experimental evidence the following quotations:

"The plant crop in the absence of bacteria (decomposing organics) but with full mineral (chemical) fertilization was on the average, 2.6 grms.; in vessels with bacteria, 7.1 grms; in vessels with bacteria but without a mineral fertilizer, 6.5 grms.

"Certain micro-organisms activate the growth of individual organs or tissues. For instance, (one bacterium) stimulates the multiplication of the cells of the root or stem tissue in tomatoes, carrots, and other plants . . . other microbes which, by their metabolic (waste) products only, activate to a considerable extent, the growth of roots or aerial parts . . . other microbes have a stimulating effect on the fruiting process in higher plants . . . cotton plants treated with the waste products of actinomycetes averaged 10-12 bolls per plant while the control (untreated) plants average 5-6 bolls.

"A great number of vitamin producing bacteria are found in the rhizosphere (root zone) of plants. According to our calculations, they comprise 40-80 percent of all soil bacteria .

"Yeasts are widespread in the soil. These organisms are powerful producers of vitamins and various other biotic substances. Many bacteria and fungi found in organic soils produce antibiotics, including penicillins, aureomycin, terramycin, and streptomycin. Some of the antibiotics can suppress the manufacture of chlorophyll and in this case must be thought of as growth inhibitors. Naturally occurring antibiotics quickly kill many outside bacteria. For example the colon bacillus suppresses the growth of the bacillus that causes Anthrax where both organisms are together. (The bacteria in manure kills the bacteria that cause Anthrax.)

"A solution of mycetin . . . completely suppresses the growth of Staph. aureus (the bacteria that causes boils and severe sore throat). In organic soils the bacteria, fungi, and actinomycetes produce substances that slows or stops growth of phytopathogens (anything harmful to plants) and saprophytes (living plants that feed on other living plants) . . . the sporeforming Bacillus simplex stopped growth of Rhizoctonia solani (a fungus that causes wilt in cucumbers and peas). Cotton seed innoculated with well ripened compost before sowing resulted in a 50-75 percent decrease in Verticillium dahliae activity (a wilt fungus); the cotton crop increased by 13-45 percent. Compost stopped the activity of a phytopathogenic fungus causing root rot in cotton.

"The favorable action of composted preparations was not due to an improvement in plant nutrition but to the more intense development (of favorable) antagonists in the soil (favorable) antagonists can be introduced by various methods . . . they may be introduced into the soil in the form of pure cultures, which is not very effective, or in the form of composts.

"It is also known that plants can absorb various organic+ substances . . . including antibiotics, through their roots. If the antibiotic substances enter the plants, it should be assumed that they may produce a certain effect in the tissues, namely, suppress the activity of microbes that have penetrated the cells and increase the toxicity of the cell sap and, consequently, also increase the resistance of the plants to infection."

The battle is joined. Krasilnikov states that organic materials are absorbed by the roots of plants including vitamins and antibiotics manufactured by bacteria and fungi in organic soil. He proved it by carefully controlled experiments. He measured soil samples for vitamins and antibiotics, added compost and measured the increase in vitamins and antibiotics after decomposition. He measured vitamins and antibiotics in the plant roots, stems, and leaves to determine exactly how much the plants absorbed.

Someone might say that the organics were decomposed to inorganic ions, and absorbed, and re-synthesized by the plant in exactly the same form and proportion as they were in the soil and we cannot prove them wrong, but it does seem highly unlikely.

We do believe from the evidence and experience that there is something in organically grown plants in addition to bigger, healthier, higher yielding, low insect damage, and better tasting food.

Quotable quotes from 1972

"Frankly, I'd like to see wall-to-wall golf courses all the way up Carmel Valley to the Village. I think that would be a great way to keep open space." Ed Haber, president of the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club and Quail Lodge.

"If the padre back in the days of the missions was interested in passing on his heritage to the Indians here, why shouldn't the Californian of today be interested in his cultural background, whatever it is, if it's Spanish or Mexican or Colonial or whatever. What is your background? Be proud of it." Miguel Salazar, consultant to the Monterey County Library.

"The two greatest threats to the residents of Carmel Valley, and indeed any beautiful place to live, are loss of open space and overcrowding, with subsequent degradation of atmosphere and environment. If the new entrant brings as his dowry either a suitable contribution of permanent open space through a master plan, or the acceptance of a permanent limit to a relatively low density, we can hope to combat both these threats." John Gibbon, developer of Featherbow Ranch, Cachagua.

CARMEL VALLEY RESIDENT HONORED. Mrs. Harry Trippe of Carmel Valley, secretary to the Scientific Advisor of the Army Combat Developments Experimentation Command at Fort Ord, receives the congratulations and the Department of the Army official commendation for her superior service to the command, from Brigadier General Ray Ochs, CDEC's commander. Gloria has served the Scientific Advisor, Dr. Marion Bryson, since his coming to the command, and before him, Walter Hollis. Dr. Bryson is also of Carmel Valley. Receiving outstanding awards at the same time were Miss Kathaleen G. Kearns of Marina, clerk stenographer with the Engineering Division, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Instrumentation; and Miss Wanda Sweat of Seaside, secretary in the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Programs. (U.S. Army photo)

"I'd like to see some of these kids who think Scouts are 'sissies' try to compete with our boys in camping skills or physical fitness. Let's just find out who the sissies are." Harold Waymire, Scoutmaster Troop 127.

"I can't think of anything more challenging. The cards are always stacked against you when you begin. After all, the case always reads: 'The People of the State of California' versus your client. That means 20 million people on one side, and there you are, standing there with your client. So you're always the underdog." Harkjoon Paik, Monterey County Public Defender.

"What's so precious about the Odello land? Does it really hold a candle to the Fish hills, for instance? As far as I'm concerned, if we can get some density there, at the mouth of the Valley, let's take it, and get the pressure off the rest of the Valley." Vaughn Parsons, County Planning Commissioner.

"You can pour money into segregated, ghetto and minority schools all you want, and you'll still have inferior ghetto schools and inferior minority schools. The distribution of educational funds has to be re-directed and, even more important, this nation has to change a lot of old attitudes. This won't be easy." Leon Panetta, attorney, former head of the Office of Civil Rights, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"I try to keep this a nice, peaceful lovely place. And it takes twice as much work to keep it this way." Vivian Holman, Holman's Guest Ranch.

"I'm very strongly motivated by the idea that when I'm vigorously defending an individual, no matter how unpopular he may be, I am in the long run defending our society." Floyd Silliman, one of the attorneys for the "Soledad Brothers" trial.

"Personally, I am in favor of flood plain zoning. If I had my way, there would be flood plain zoning (in Carmel Valley), but I have to speak for the majority of people who put me into office." Supervisor Willard Branson.

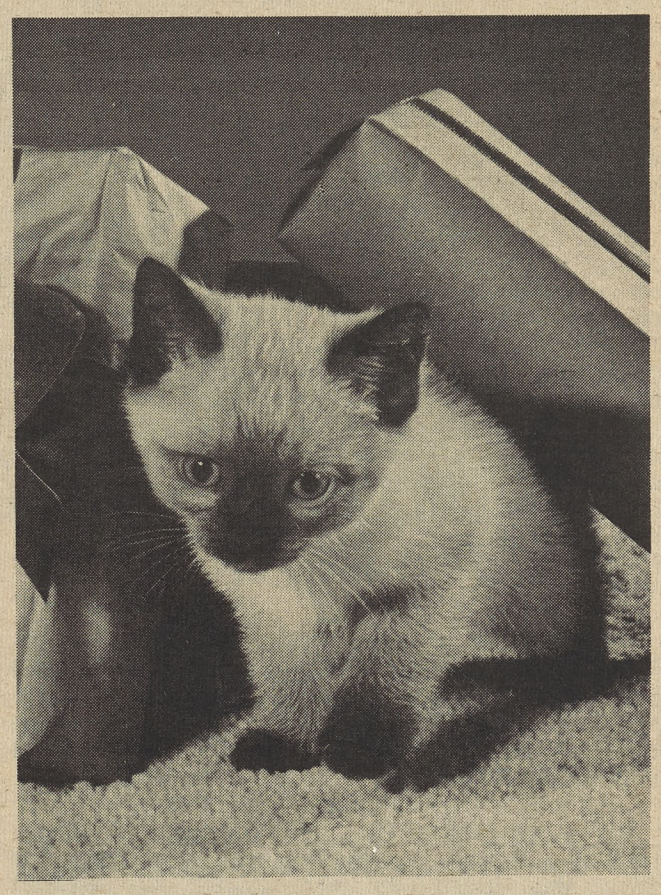
"I think we can try to match what we're doing in academics in terms of humanizing the school a bit more. I don't find a great deal of student pride in the school, and I think there should be. Robert Whitehead, principal of Carmel Middle School.

"I think abstraction and non-objectivity are a natural thing for the mature artist. Just as your handwriting starts out being very precise and then gradually becomes more abstract and distinctive, so it is with art." Virginia Sevier Rogers.

"We're in a position where we're going to have to sacrifice what we've been here trying to preserve. And then we're going to be ruining the land too, when we get through with the property. It's a darn shame." Rancher Fred Nason, talking of selling land to pay higher property taxes.

"What I tried to do, and what still needs to be done, is to keep in mind that whenever we try to help people and solve a problem, the method we use should not make the problem worse. So often what people do makes the problem worse." John Frykman, speaking of his work as Carmel community counselor.

"...many thoroughbreds are jiggling idiots until they've been in training ten years." Lucy Smithson, Feedbag columnist.



HOW MERRY was your Christmas? Many pets have found a new home, but many more need them. Call at the SPCA Shelter on the Salinas-Monterey Highway. Photo by Virginia Kay.

"Simple and crisp...handsome." Richard Osborne of Carmel Center, describing the architectural design of his shopping center complex.

"Anyone who thinks the big producer isn't willing to sacrifice the public well being, health and even life for a buck is dead wrong. They still sell cigarettes." Lee Hall, Organic Gardener columnist.

"Most people dissociate their mouth from the rest of their body, which shows how powerful their fear is. People will come in with a severe infection or disease in their mouth which they have let go on and on, where they would never have allowed the same thing to go on unattended on their cheek or arm." Dr. Thomas McGuire, dentist and author of "The Tooth Trip."

"Philosophically, I'm attuned to the idea that we ought to be receptive to new ideas. Basically, I'm really more of a 'show me' kind. But I have no biases against doing something different just because it is new to me. On the other hand, I don't think you make changes just for the sake of change." Kenneth Bullock, Carmel High School principal.

"If there were 40 women school teachers up there (in the State Senate), you men would be out actively working to change things. If there were 40 long-haired college kids in office, you men would be out working for more balanced representation. I'm talking about 40 white men, mostly attorneys, and I think that's what needs to be changed." Suzanne Paizis, Democratic candidate for the State Senate, speaking to the Carmel Valley Kiwanis.

"I don't believe Oswald ever owned a rifle. He was in the book depository, but he was used as a decoy." Mae Brussel, researcher on the assassination of President Kennedy.

"No doubt about it; if we had our druthers, we'd be a cat. A fat, purring, whisker-cleaning, undisciplined, unprincipled and very smart cat." Judith Eisner, Petpourri columnist.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

A CARLOAD OF BEST WISHES for happiness in their new home and career accompanied Lois and Chuck Kline who left this week bound for La Jolla where Chuck has been offered the position of horticulturist at Sea World, an aquatic park located on Mission Bay. The long-time Valley residents have sold their Los Ranchitos home and are delighted with the family who found their park-like setting as appealing as two of the Valley's top flight gardeners who designed it. Lois' son, Chris Robinson, who was home for the Christmas holiday has returned to the University of California at Santa Barbara where he is a junior majoring in geography. Valley friends bound for the southland will want to plan to include a visit with the Klines at their new La Jolla residence which they have purchased--5701 Rutgers Road.

"THE CHRISTMAS OF '73 we will return and celebrate together in Carmel Valley"--a pact made and kept by two couples who met and became close friends while stationed at the Naval Postgraduate School. Gwen and Louie Casebeer flew out from their home in Duluth, Minn., and were joined by Stella and Carey Tuter who now reside near San Diego. Many photos of those early days of adventures arrived with the travelers' luggage as well as two bottles of wine exchanged when they shipped out in '63 and were saved to be shared a decade later. Following visits with mutual friends and noting the numerous changes which had taken place during their ten year absence the foursome left for San Francisco with promises to meet again in '83 in Carmel Valley.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD GONZALES and nine-month-old daughter Ellen, of 393 W. Carmel Valley Road welcomed Christmas guests from Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. James McAdams. Mr. and Mrs. McAdams formerly resided on the Peninsula while he was an instructor at the Naval Postgraduate School.

xxx

MR. AND MRS. NICK SKALYO extended holiday hospitality at their Horizon Way home to include close friends who arrived from Pittsburgh, Pa., Kay and Earl Holmes, and Mary's sister and husband, Ann and Dave Pigozzi of South Gate.

xxx

MR. AND MRS. JAMES L. HYMES JR. of 124 Laurel Drive welcomed a visit from their daughter, Jody Hymes, who is attending the University of Michigan graduate school center of Japanese studies. Miss Hymes, a graduate of Carlton College, received a fellowship and lived in Japan for two years. A potter, the current studies of Miss Hymes include East Asian art and history and include Far Eastern ceramics.

xxx

HOME IN TIME for the holidays was Win Griffith, husband of Outlook staff writer, Pat Griffith. Win has been away from the Valley serving as press secretary for the Democratic National Party. The Griffith children, Kevin and Christina were delighted that Dad could be home for Christmas and proudly showed him their new home to which the family had moved during his absence.

TINY JOEL COSSEBOOM--just four months old--had two Christmases. The first a week early when his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Wimber, arrived from San Diego to celebrate with Joel and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Cosseboom at 4 Sage Road. On Christmas Day the Valley family drove to Salinas to celebrate with his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cosseboom.

xxx

MR. AND MRS. NELSON MILES LEONI filled their Scarlett Road home with young people for Christmas with the arrival of Bernice's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Annand, Coalinga, her granddaughter, Miss Iathan Annand, San Francisco, her grandson, Kent Annand, Santa Rosa, and Bruce Cass of San Francisco.

ONE OF THE PRETTIEST holiday traditions was celebrated at the Rancho Road home of Mrs. W. G. B. Hatch--a Christmas salad luncheon for members and guests of the Altar Society of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church. Gathered about the buffet table were Mrs. William H. Kinard, Mrs. Richard Dick, Mrs. Larry Huddleson, Mrs. Sharon Canham and Mrs. Jean Powell.

"ALL MEMBERS OF COMSAT station in Managua, Nicaragua are safe," was the welcome report relayed to concerned families and friends following the devastating earthquake. Very much in the thoughts of Valley friends was the welfare of the Jim Clarks--former Valley-ites who accepted an assignment in Nicaragua last summer. All are safe--Pam and the baby have reportedly returned to stay with her parents in California and Jim remains at the Comsat station in Managua.

IT WAS A FAMILY GATHERING for the holidays at the Boronda Road home of Mr. and Mrs. John Conklin and children Lisa, Sara and Ken, who welcomed--in time to celebrate Christmas--Ty's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Crandall of Salem, Ore., and John's mother, Mrs. Ann Conklin of Monterey. Joining them for New Years are Ty's brother and family from Seal Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Crandall, Mary, Kate and Brian.

xxx

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT GRANT arrived from Baton Rouge, La., to share the holidays with their daughter and her husband, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Gray, who are occupying the home in Los Tulares which the Grants built for their retirement. Invited to join the foursome for cocktails at their Valley home followed by dinner at Rancho Canada Golf and Country Club were Mr. and Mrs. John Curran, Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. Richard Bonewitz, Mrs. Dorothy Chappell and Mr. and Mrs. Don Koontz.

THE DINING ROOM of Rancho Canada Golf Club was the setting of the annual Christmas party and installation of officers for members of the Rancho Canada Women's Golf Club. Mrs. George Rausch was installed as 1973 captain; Mrs. Allan Petersdorf, co-captain and tournament chairman; Mrs. Helen Hanslif, secretary; and Mrs. Art Bell, treasurer. New board members include Mmes. George Leslie, Mary Parnall and Jack Pira.

Appointments of committee chairmen included Mrs. Bill Lindersmith, co-tournament chairman; Mrs. Lawrence Kinsler, handicap; Mrs. Frank Gamberutti Sr., P.W.G.A. representative; Mrs. Fancho Mowers, membership; Mrs. Clifford Cook, rules; Mrs. H.J. Wendt, social; Mrs. Hal Hellett, prizes and Jeanne Krug, Sunday tournament chairman.

Awards made during festivities included "Most improved golfer of the year" trophy to Mrs. Larry Lloyd and the annual putting prize to Mrs. Fred Cunningham.

FIDELITY CLUB

The Fidelity Club of Carmel Valley will hold its first monthly pot-luck dinner of 1973 in the Carmel Valley Community Chapel dining room on Thursday, Jan. 4. All members are encouraged to invite guests to the 6 p.m. dinner. Entertainment to be announced will follow.

CARMEL VALLEY WOMEN'S CLUB

Members of the Carmel Valley Women's Club will begin the New Year together at the Buckeye Restaurant on Jan. 3 with a luncheon meeting beginning at 12:30. Dr. William Duthie has ben invited as guest speaker and will discuss Graphology--the art of handwriting analysis. Some European universities give courses in the subject and some businesses are said to have the handwriting of job applicants analyzed before hiring for company positions.

Dr. Duthie obtained his masters degreee at the University of Washington and his PhD at Princeton. He has been a professor of Meteorology at the Naval Postgraduate School since 1948.

The beautiful faces of Carmel Valley

A serious review of events in Carmel Valley for 1972 would rehash a great deal of commotion, controversy and consternation about a multitude of dead-serious topics: flood plains and condominiums, septic tanks and hillside cuts, economic survival and rezoning, elections and lawsuits.

Instead, we decided to review the brighter side of the year, as recorded by Carmel Valley's fearless, peerless girl-watcher, George T.C. Smith.

No problems here. Just lots of happy, pretty faces of people who added significantly to the warmth, charm and beauty of Carmel Valley in 1972.

WHERE CARMEL VALLEY ROAD MEETS HIWAY 1

By JUDITH A. EISNER

EVERYONE, including all the animals we know, seems to be recuperating gratefully from a very hectic Christmas weekend and anticipating the New Year's festivities ahead.

Your pets are probably recovering from Christmas just as you are -- depending, of course, on the quality and quantity of celebration at your home. We know of several local cats which looked upon this Christmas, as on past occasions, as something to be survived, and which spent the egg-nogging, gift-opening hours crouched beneath bed or sofa with a distinctly distasteful look on their faces.

One clever dog-and-cat owner we know solved part of the problem this year by giving the dogs their Christmas gifts first, before the rest of the family untied a single bow. The dogs retired with their brand new rawhide chew toys and were so absorbed that nary a ribbon, shred of wrapping paper or strip of tinsel did they eat.

We anthropomorphized to the point of slicing the meat off a pre-Christmas chicken leg for our dog's Christmas dinner, and we've heard that many people have been buying the five-flavored, five-colored variety of dog food for their pets so they won't have to eat an "all-brown" dinner every night! (Dogs are color blind, but the sentiment's nice.)

ASSUMING that no catastrophes befell your pets over the Christmas weekend, and that all the new chew toys and catnip mice are showing comfortable signs of wear, it's time to think of New Year's resolutions. Even if you generally eschew making resolutions, they may provide some food for thought. These are, of course, New Year's resolutions for pet owners.

The best promise you can make and keep for the coming year is . . .

I PROMISE to assume full responsibility for my pet's whereabouts, behavior, health, happiness and well-being. If every pet owner would promise to do this -- and keep the promise -- most of the pet-related problems would disappear.

Everything else we can suggest as resolutions is really part of the first pledge.

I PROMISE not to let my female dog or cat have a litter of unwanted, unneeded, surplus babies this year which would only contribute to the animal population explosion and which would be unable to find the homes they rightfully deserve.

I PROMISE not to permit my dogs to roam at large, even though there may not be a leash law to prohibit it. That's a big promise to make and keep, but so important. Keeping your dogs at home where they belong means they won't be able to get into trouble,breed indiscriminately, chase wildlife or livestock, terrorize children, motorists or pedestrians, or run the risk of being hurt in dog fights or killed by cars.

I RESOLVE to pay attention to the needs of my pets -- be they for medical attention or human attention. That means you won't delay getting proper care for injuries or illnesses on the belief that "maybe they'll just go away," or attempt potentially harmful home remedies for sick pets.

It also means that, having assumed ownership of a living creature, you will treat it with love and respect, share some of your time and activity with it, and include it in at least part of your family life.

I RESOLVE to feed my pets properly and regularly, and to groom them (including cats) at least once a week.

It disturbs us that many people spend more time polishing their cars or their silverware than they do brushing or combing their pets. A well-fed, well-groomed pet can be as much an object of pride (and a status symbol, if you will) as the shiniest inanimate object. They'll feel and look better and radiate happiness and good health. You wash and brush your hair regularly; your pets deserve the same care.

I PROMISE not to chain my dog. I further promise not to tie him up for long periods of time without supervision, proper shelter and fresh water.

Add to that resolution the promise to provide every outdoor dog with a snug, waterproof, well-ventilated dog house and a regular supply of clean water, plus an escape-proof run or yard which is cleaned at least once a week. One of the greatest abuses of the outdoor dog is to keep him in a run where droppings (and flies and disease) are permitted to accumulate for long periods of time. It's inexcusable and it's plain disgusting to humans and to dogs as well.

Our last resolution is really a hope for the future:

I PROMISE TO BE AWARE of my own animals and of those belonging to others. If you see or know of abuses to animals, whether intentional or accidental, resolve to speak to the responsible party or to the property authorities. When people lack the proper information to care for their pets correctly, offer your assistance or steer them to where they can obtain help. Discourage people from permitting their pets to breed and run at large. Be a good pet-owning neighbor.

And to you and all your animals, best wishes for a Happy New Year!

Gruelling schedule takes its toll, Padres wilt in hoop tourney

Tired players and a gruelling schedule worked against the Padres during the Carmel High Invitational Basketball Tournament (held Dec. 18 through 20) giving Carmel fourth place in the tourney.

After an impressive 72-45 win over Harbor High School last Monday, the Padres were defeated by the Seaside Spartans by a 54-36 score last Tuesday. The Spartan win gave Seaside the chance to move into the finals.

Seaside captured the backboards early and ran away from the tired Padres. Carmel was playing its ninth game in 13 days and fifth in six nights.

Spartan forward Curtis Borum scored 21 points, 10 of them in the third quarter as Seaside stretched a 24-11 halftime lead to 36-20 after three periods. That lead was widened to 50-22 late in the final period.

The Padres hit on just 10 of 72 field goal attempts for 14 percent. Carmel's Kaese Pollard led the Padres with 13 rebounds and Borum grabbed 12 to pace Seaside.

On Wednesday, Santa Cruz took third place in the tournament with an 81-53 win over Carmel. (The Spartans lost the championship to Irvington High of Fremont by a score of 59-45).

Santa Cruz blitzed Carmel with a 25-3 first quarter, putting the Padres too far behind to come back. The Cardinals led 31-6 early in the second period, but the Padres did close to within 14 points at 40-26. That was the closest Carmel could come.

Glenn Reed and Dave Bruce, both of whom made the all-tournament team, led the Cardinals. Reed has 13 points and 14 rebounds and Bruce had 12 points.

Carmel guards Chuck Calcagno and Mike Ford led the Padres with 13 and 12 points respectively. Steve Burdick was the Padres' rebound leader with nine.

All Saints' school building drive hits first plateau

The building fund drive for All Saints' Day School has reached its first plateau, according to Bud Allen, general chairman for the drive.

"We have collected sufficient funds," Allen said, "to go ahead with final plans and construction of a multi-purpose building which will serve as chapel, gymnasium, meeting room for 300 people, inclement-weather playroom, movie room, music and dance quarters and storage space."

Allen added that various campaign committees are now being supervised by Campaign Coordinator Milton C. Coburn and the optimistic outlook for the fund drive is that it will be able to reach its overall goal of $600,000 in 1973. All Saints' Day School is located in Carmel Valley.

NEW YEAR'S EVE AND DAY bring a varied fare for diners and revelers all the way from the heart of Carmel Valley to Cannery Row. It is a time for dining out and for toasting the bright new year.

CLASSICAL CHINESE CUISINE is the fare at The Golden Dragon Restaurant at Cannery Square on Cannery Row. This fine Chinese restaurant will be open for New Year's Eve for dinner from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. and for lunch and dinner on New Year's day. Hours for lunch are 11:30 to 2:30.

Right on location for the action on Cannery Row, the restaurant offers a commanding view of Monterey Bay from its third floor location in Cannery Square. One of the highlights of host Frank Ling's menu (and there are many) is his Golden Dragon Button Mushroom Steak Cubes served with snow peas with barbecued pork, Mandarin duck, and Golden Dragon fried rice. With service for three to five persons, he adds Cantonese lobster and with six or more persons, oyster sauce abalone with black mushrooms. Those who prefer American dinners, choose from a varied selection that includes New York steak, Teriyaki steak, fried chicken and fried prawns.

THE CARRIAGE HOUSE in Carmel Valley will be open at 5 p.m. for dinner on New Year's Eve and will serve brunch on New Year's Day from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. New Year's Eve dinner selections are varied and include roast leg of lamb, New York sirloin steak, halibut princess, veal cutlets "Austrian style," and chicken supreme, to name a few.

NEW YEAR'S EVE will be a big fun night at Mike Tancredi's HATCH COVER in Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, where Carmel Valley Road meets Highway 1. This great steak house has them all . . . top sirloin, New York, Teriyaki, filet, as well as delicious rack of lamb, beef kabob and lobster. New Year's Eve here can begin with dinner then move into the lounge where entertainment begins at 8:30 with "Friends" taking the spotlight.

THE SUNDAY BRUNCH will be served as usual at Hidden Village Coffee House in Monterey, but they will not be open for dinner on New Year's Eve. The popular champagne brunch is served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and devotees of the fine food of New Orleans will be reminded of those great dishes as they make their selection from Hidden Village's menu that includes Creole chicken crepes, Quiche Orleans and hamon and oeufs . . .served, of course, with corn pones or English muffins and preceded by a champagne cocktail or Hidden Village fizz.

KING'S CROSS STATION in Pacific Grove will be a great place to ring out the old and ring in the new on New Year's Eve. David Bindel plans party favors, hors d'oeuvres, and live entertainment with Kathy Sollecito and Jim LeSage and their group (just back from Tahoe).

MRS. VERNON'S BAGATELLE, in the heart of Carmel Valley (Pilot Road near "The Village") will be closed until January 6. Then they will open with new hours: breakfast served daily from 8 a.m. and lunch until 3 p.m. On Sundays breakfast service will start at 10 and Sunday dinner will be served from 12 to 3. Mrs. Vernon can also accommodate private parties of 20 or more. Lunches at La Bagatelle feature a variety of delightful sandwiches and a different hot dish each day.

THE DINING ROOM at Rancho Canada will be closed from January 1 to January 5, but cold sandwiches will be available in the bar, which will be open as usual. Choose from a selection of roast beef, ham and cheese, and turkey .

MAXIM, in "The Village", Carmel Valley (right near the post office), will be closed New Year's Eve and New Year's Day, but will open again on Wednesday with lunch and dinner service. A new feature at Maxim will be dinner for two at a special price, with the coupon on this page.

Hidden Valley 10th reunion concert tomorrow night

Hidden Valley Music Seminars is holding its 10th Annual Holiday Reunion this week on its new campus in Carmel Valley.

The reunion brings together alumni of Hidden Valley's summer music seminar for three days of rehearsing and socializing. Among those gathering for the event which will culminate in a concert at Sunset Theatre tomorrow (Friday) evening, are some of the nation's finest young classical musicians. They come from as far away as New York and Boston for this year's reunion.

"HELLO, DOLLY," one of the great musicals of our time is currently showing at Valley Cinema, Mid-Valley Center, Carmel Valley. Barbra Streisand stars as Dolly. Companion feature is "Paint Your Wagon." Showings are continuous from 1 p.m. daily.

Hidden Valley, most recently in the news because of its highly acclaimed production of The Pirates of Penzance, and because of its well-publicized struggle to stay alive financially, has for the past ten summers worked towards providing training to young musicians of demonstrated potential.

In the past few summers large numbers of local music lovers have become aware of the quality of Hidden Valley's program.

The weekly performances are the end result of rehearsal and study that lasts ten hours a day, six days a week. They bring before the local public students from such prestigious institutions as the Juilliard School, Curtis Institute, Eastman School of Music, New England Conservatory of Music, Hart Conservatory, USC and many other colleges and universities.

The reunions began after the first summer seminar as a result of the desire of the participants to meet again and spend a few days reminiscing and rehearsing. In the early days the rehearsals culminated in an evening of music-making for which only "the walls of the hall" served as an audience.

In the past several years, however, the demand for performances by the orchestra and chorale has led to the public concerts held in Sunset.

This year's performance will be at 8 p.m. on Friday and all seats are available without charge. There are no reservations accepted and thus an early arrival is suggested.

As in the summer series, John Waddell will conduct the chorale and Dr. Michael Zearott will conduct the orchestra. The program has not yet been announced, but anyone who has attended past Hidden Valley concerts knows that it will be an evening of music performed by musicians with skill, artistry and enthusiasm.

By LUCY SMITHSON

THERE'S FEW MOMENTS as joyful as unwrapping a new Christmas gift bridle. Particularly if your old bridle was made of discarded belts and had its broken reins knotted at the side. We hope many of you had the pleasure of similar gifts.

If you got a new bridle or saddle for Christmas you must give the new leather a treatment before using it. Leather in stores and warehouses gets dry. It may have been waxed to prevent its deterioration. Saddle soap will remove the wax and give the leather a "drink" of lanolin. Some western gear needs to be oiled with neatsfoot oil before use. Most English gear responds to Lexol or something like it. This depends on the tanning process and the country the item comes from. Spend some time in the store reading labels before you decide what to buy.

Undo all the buckles and lay all the straps out flat. Do the undersides of the leather and the inside of folded girths, as well as the topside. Now that you've got everything laid out, can you call it by name?

Here are the words to go in the spaces. Pommel, cantle and stirrup leather are each used twice.

Horn, Browband, Flap, Stirrup, Stirrup Leather, Stirrup Iron, Reins, Skirt;

Pommel, Cavesson, Fender, Girth, Reins, Skirt, Snaffle Bit, Latigo, Swell, Concho, Cinch, Cantle, Throad Latch, Dee Ring.

AND A HAPPY, HORSEY NEW YEAR TO YOU ALL!

A look at the year that was and a forecast for 1973

New format, goals mapped for Chamber

By BOB WEHE

Skip Marquard, out-going president has completed an eventful year. Under his guidance a new Carmel Valley color brochure has been designed and will soon be available for distribution to Chamber members.

As the new president, I enthusiastically look ahead to the new year.

A few functional changes have been made and a few objectives or goals have been set.

One of the major functional changes that will be effected in 1973 is a switch to a monthly seminar meeting to be attended by the officers and those committee members involved with current projects. Each quarter of the year a general membership luncheon with guest speaker will be scheduled. It is felt that this streamlined approach will prove effective.

Objective One: In order to develop a clear picture of the needs of the business community of Carmel Valley and to identify the way in which Chamber can best meet those needs, I plan to visit individually with the members.

Objective Two: Increase the membership. We now have approximately 80 members. There are over 200 individual businesses in Carmel Valley, and our goal in 1973 is to go over 100.

Objective Three: Produce a new Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce Business Directory.

Objective Four: Stimulate more people to become involved and to take an active interest in the many Carmel Valley organizations. If you are not a member of the Chamber,, the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center, the Woman's Club, the Property Owners Assn., the Kiwanis, the Lions or the Rotary, see that you join. If you are a member, get involved.

Objective Five: Bus Stop Stations for school kids. Through the cooperation of the Carmel Unified School District, Monterey County and the support of the local service organizations we hope to construct two in 1973.

These objectives set the stage for 1973, but the protection of Carmel Valley's natural beauty and its quiet pastoral countryside will be the uppermost aim of the 1973 Board of Directors.

A great year is predicted for California; next year will be one of the best years in the past two decades in terms of economic growth, and California will expand more rapidly than the rest of the nation for the first time since 1960. Come and hear our guest speaker Edward Evans, President of the Valley National Bank of Salinas, on how Monterey County will fare and particularly its effect on Carmel Valley.

Bob Wehe is incoming president of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce and owner of the Valley Lodge.

Expresses concern about repressive movement

By LANCE MONOSOFF

A YEAR AGO, campuses across the nation were turbulent. Free speech and the anti-war movement were hot issues at that time. There was a feeling among students that relevant classes must be taught to keep up with the rapidly changing society.

Not much of this movement hit Carmel High School. Carmel High School seemed to be isolated from this movement. Politics were, and still are, rarely discussed among students. Some students seem to take pride in not reading a newspaper for years.

Now, I fear, a repressive movement is sweeping across America. The Supreme Court now has some newly-appointed members who are voting together on most of the issues brought to them. The court recently made a decision that casts a frightening shadow across the constitutional right of the free press. Reporters can, and are, jailed for not revealing their sources of information to grand juries.

Some members of the California Board of Education also seem to be following this repressive movement. Recently, the Board was seriously considering the idea of teaching the Bible theory of creation, which is not a scientific theory, in science classes.

Carmel High School also seems to be following this repressive movement. Recently, our new principal said that the public, not he, was in charge of the educational process at our school.

If the public does have a say on what goes on at school, why did Dr. Taylor, Superintendent of the Carmel School District, appoint Dr. Bullock without asking the opinion of parents, faculty or students? The public, i.e., parents, faculty, students, had no say whatsoever in his appointment.

I fear this repressive movement will take hold of Carmel High School in the next few years and the public will let it do so without a fight. My only hope is that I will be proven wrong.

Lance is this year's president of the Student Government at Carmel High School.

Voters found new answers in '72

By JOHN SIGOURNEY

In 1972 the voters of the Monterey Peninsula seemed to turn to new solutions for problems that local government has not been successful in solving. Thus the voters approved Proposition 20 and a Park and Open Space District. Both of these new bodies are regional rather than local in nature. This is a strong indication that the people are impatient with the ways local government has functioned. There is increased awareness on the part of the taxpayers to preserve environmental quality.

In 1972 the California Supreme Court showed a determination to help individual citizens preserve their environment by agreeing that private developers as well as public agencies needed to submit environmental impact studies.

Local governmental bodies have demonstrated a new attitude and willingness to change the Carmel Valley Master Plan from one unit per acre to 6 units and higher both at the mouth of the Valley and in the Village. Thus the Carmel Valley Master Plan itself is threatened.

In 1972 we learned we are not going to have a Klondike Water Storage and Flood Control dam and yet local governments have continued to grant high density developments, thereby compounding the double hazard of inadequate water and sewage facilities.

1972 gave hope for a solution to the Odello lands that will be fair to all.

Since nothing was done at the local level for a slope density plan for Carmel Valley, a new attempt is being made to update the Area Master Plan (a regional agency) that will reflect the voters' concern for open space, slope density restrictions and the preservation of our wooded ridges.

Fewer zoning battles forecast for '73

By WILLARD BRANSON

BEST WISHES for a joyous holiday season and my thanks to all who have contributed so much to the community and the welfare of man on the Monterey Peninsula.

This year has been one of turmoil and strife to some degree, but measured against the effectiveness of the effort, it has been worthwhile. Proposition 20 and Proposition A should bring about great changes which will bear close community co-operation in order to maximize their potential in this beautiful and unspoiled area.

I look forward to a diminution of zoning friction throughout Carmel and Carmel Valley due to the sense of direction which has been shown by not only our elected and appointed officials, but more importantly by the various property owners associations and citizens groups who are making this possible.

Branson is a member of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, representing the Fifth District.

An Ode to 1972

By DR. EDWARD P. MARCUCCI

We had much dialectic about tanks aseptic
and the area plan put on the pan.

Things are a bit more mellow concerning Odello and we're glad to have Willard back again.

We have two propositions read in all editions and time will test for acclaim.

The waters are less muddy anent the Village study and thanks for a moiety of rain.

Any day we wake up in the morning is a good day, and may you all have a good day every day in 1973.

Happy New Year

CVPOA views year of accomplishments

By WILLIAM B. BROWN

1972 has been a year of accomplishment for the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association. We have been quite successful in stopping many projects which were deemed contrary to CVPOA's objectives. We have happily taken a step forward in many directions. The Committee for updating the Village Master Plan has made remarkable progress in the last two months and should be able to make its report to the Planning Commission in February 1973. Thanks to Pat Griffith and the Carmel Valley Outlook, all the plans put forward have been reported extensively. Credit should be paid to President Skip Marquard and the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce for the cooperation and input of the Chamber members of this Committee.

We have been pleased by the acceptance of the developers of Flood Plain Zoning. The last three developments, Rancho Del Monte No. 14, Carmel Lago and Riverwood accepted FP zoning without any arguments.

At the start of 1972 it looked like we were going to be faced with an onslaught of housing. Fortunately we were able to either stop or reduce the density of many of these projects. Rancho Fiesta, Riverwood, Carmel River Inn, Sunridge Tennis Ranch, and Mr. Gamboa's project for Val Verde are some examples.

We led the fight for the encroachment of additional commercial zoning in Carmel Valley when we opposed Riverwood.

We supported both Proposition A and Coastal Initiative 20 both with money and work.

1973 should see us continue our efforts to pursue our objectives of orderly growth and the preservation of natural beauty and rural character of the Carmel Valley.

Tax reform, Prop. 20 major '72 actions

By BOB WOOD

THE 1972 legislative year is over and this is usually the time of year that we look back to see if our year has been a productive one. Although there were some issues left unresolved, the legislature finally turned eight years of promises into a reality with a major tax reform program.

The tax reform bill has to be considered the most important accomplishment in the Legislature in 1972. The average property tax reduction for a family making $20,000 a year would be $145, for a family making $15,000 it would be about $139. The key part of the bill is to have taxes shifted away from the regressive property tax.

The property taxpayer receives a reduction in his property tax bill through an increase in the homeowners exemption from the present $750 to $1,750, and by a reduction in the school district property tax rate made possible by additional state financial support for education. In the Carmel Unified School District, for example, our state school finance experts in Sacramento say that the tax rate will drop from the present $2.96 per $100 assessed valuation to about $2.50 in the 1976-77 fiscal year.

Since the tax plan is a tax shift and not a tax reduction, the money for all of this property tax relief is made up primarily by an increase in the state sales tax from 5 percent to 6 percent and increases in the bank and corporation taxes.

The other big event of 1972 was the passage of Proposition 20 on the November ballot to protect and preserve our over 1,000 miles of coastline in California. As many of you probably know, I have been a co-author of the major coastline protection bill each year since being your representative at the State Capitol. Fortunately, the people of California have taken this important step which may be our last chance to preserve the natural resources of our coast for future generations.

As for next year, there are many important bills to be considered. Foremost among them will probably be bills like no-fault insurance, catastrophic health insurance to keep a person from going broke because of a single illness and bills to further protect our environment.

This past year, we were fortunate in having most of our own bills relating to Monterey County passed by the Legislature and signed into law. We hope that in the new year the interests of Monterey County will be recognized and needed laws will be passed when necessary and justified.

...'twas the day after Christmas

Text by Pat Griffith

Photos by George T.C. Smith

'Twas the day after Christmas, and all through Carmel Valley...baby dolls were being brushed and dressed and cradled by little "mothers," gleaming bicycles were wobbling along driveways, model planes were snorting and sputtering over school playgrounds...

And meanwhile, back by the Christmas tree, there were games and ties and empty stockings and candy wrappers and flannel pajamas and books and candy cane crumbs and scraps of gift wrap all over the place. And no one rushed to clean it all up.

The day after Christmas. New toys (some broken already) and lots of good things left to eat. And for bleary-eyed parents the great consolation was that on Dec. 26, and sometimes even on Dec. 27 and 28, they didn't hear the plaintive wail: "There's nothing to do."

LOOKOUT, STEELHEAD...Brent Buche now has everything necessary to do some very serious fishing in the Carmel River.

DISASTER AT TULARCITOS. Josh Davidson's new Cox airplane crashed on its maiden flight, but fortunately his father, Kirk Davidson, was on hand for some fast repairs.

PROUD "MAMA" Jennifer Buckner shows off her new baby and stroller to her friend, Sarah Hicks.

THE BIG MOMENT for Stephen Cummings came when he perched on the seat of his shiny bicycle for a practice run around the garage.

AN AQUARIUM was just exactly what Susan Buckner wanted from Santa. Now comes the fun part--feeding the fish.

THE WEEK after Christmas is the one time of the year when the living room looks like a playroom and nobody minds at all. Amy Buckner tries out a new chalkboard while her sisters and a friend play with new games.

AMONG THE MOST POPULAR presents for boys this year were gasoline-powered vehicles of various designs. Kurt Buche fuels his chopper, left, while Sam Davidson gingerly puts down his smoking "Sandblaster" for a trial run across the Tularcitos playground. →

Sierra Club watching regional planners

By VERN YADON

VENTANA CHAPTER, Sierra Club along with other conservation organizations of the Monterey Peninsula worked very hard to obtain passage of Proposition 20 and Proposition A. Our organization is confident that the directors elected with Proposition A will provide a sound foundation for the proper establishment of parks and open space for the future of the Peninsula area. The outcome of Proposition 20, however, depends in large measure on the quality and balance of the Regional and State Commissions established by that initiative.

In essence, Proposition 20 provides a legislative vehicle for establishing a regional approach to coastal planning with a state commission set up to act as a final authority for appeals. The final plan will be completed in 1976 for enactment by the legislature at that time.

Like all organizations for or against Proposition 20, Ventana Chapter has been apprehensive that the makeup of the Regional and State Commissions might be out of balance, that the powerful lobbies in Sacramento might somehow obtain the greater number of appointments. Surely the reverse is true for those interested in liberal coastal development. Ideally it would be my choice that both sides should be represented, but intelligent planning and the will of the people must be revealed in the final document.

Conservationists have repeatedly been asked what they think of the appointments thus far. Speaking only for myself, I can say that I know Supervisor Warren Church and Mayor Robert Quinn to be honest, intelligent men. I do not presuppose how they will vote on the commissions and certainly do not wish to judge them before the fact. I can only pledge that our chapter of the Sierra Club will remain interested and involved in this planning procedure.

Other issues in which the chapter will be active in 1973 are Junipero Serra Peak and the question of whether the University of California should build an observatory there along with a supporting road which, in our judgment, would be grossly damaging to the fragile character of tne relict vegetation and esthetics of the peak.

We will continue to be concerned with the control of off-road vehicles which currently are destroying miles of Monterey County coastal vegetation. We will continue our opposition to zoning changes in areas when the environment and esthetics are affected.

We think that the County should establish flood plain zoning in Carmel Valley and that it should not be active in the control of predacious animals, and where health reasons require rodent control that poisons used not be active secondarily.

In addition to the above, the chapter will continue to align itself with and work toward fruition of the national policies of the Sierra Club.

Yadon is president of Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club.

Bloodmobile to visit lower Valley Dec. 29

An American Red Cross Blood Drawing will be held at the Holiday Inn, Rio Road and Hiway 1, on Friday, Dec. 29 from 10:00 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Blood Program Chairman, Mimi Weingarten stated, "If you truly want to be a part of the Holiday Giving, please share your greatest fortune of good health with others."

"Today, Red Cross is you or someone like you helping, be a good neighbor. Please help those who need it by donating your blood during this fantastically busy, exciting, loveliest of holiday seasons. We are anxious to provide safe blood and blood products to all who need them," continued Mrs. Weingarten.

According to Carmel Chapter, Executive Secretary Dorothy von Meier, the holiday season has proven to be the time of more traveling, more parties and thus more accidents which unfortunately means that more transfusions are necessary. The American Red Cross runs the largest blood collection agency in the world. A nation-wide rare blood registry has been established so donors with rare blood types can be quickly located when needed.

"We feel that this will be a richly rewarding party for all donors, and a delicious luncheon will be served. Telephone 624-6921," concluded Mrs. Weingarten.

EMERGENCY CALLS

There was little time off over the Christmas holidays for members of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department.

On Sunday afternoon, the department was contacted by an S. Claus, address North Pole, who was experiencing some difficulty with a sleigh and asked for assistance in delivering innumerable bundles. Although the fire department is not normally in the delivery business, Chief Chip Collins, moved by the spirit of Christmas, agreed to the request, and the portly visitor was taken to several houses in the Village area Sunday afternoon and evening.

At 6:53 p.m. Christmas Day, the department's Red Cross ambulance was dispatched to the Carmel Valley Inn, where Mrs. A.M. Shuttie of Salinas had been taken ill. She was transported to Community Hospital as a medical emergency.

Mary B. Woolsey was taken from her home at 22 Via Contenta at 2:19 a.m. Monday morning to Community Hospital as a medical emergency.

This morning (Thursday) the ambulance was called to 2 Holman Road at 8:36 a.m., where Vivian Hergenhan was treated for shock and taken to Monterey Hospital as a medical emergency.

The department also answered a minor fire call on Monday afternoon at Flight Road and East Carmel Valley Road. A comforter used to keep a car engine warm had caught on fire after accidentally being dragged behind a car driven by Mrs. Fred Sorri. Damage was limited to the comforter at an estimated loss of $10.

For five years straight, the readers of Car and Driver have voted BMW the world's best sports sedan.

Not only that:
Road & Track says BMW is one of the best-made cars in the world. Motor Trend editors voted it the world's best sports sedan. Ken Purdy says in Playboy, it may very well be the best car in the world. There are plenty of reasons why.

An engine, for example, that's so rugged you can cruise all day long at 100 mph.

A suspension system that gives you phenomenal roadholding. So good that it's unsurpassed by any other car built anywhere.

Superb German engineering by the Bavarian Motor Works of Munich. Plus that nearly indefinable, beautifully finished, all-around well-madeness BMW is famous for.

Visit your BMW dealer. He'll tell you about the new BMW tii. He'll show you the cars that have picked up more than 1,000 gold medals in international competition.

And won the hearts of Road & Track, Motor Trend and Sports Car Graphic. To say nothing of Car and Driver.
